

Pulp & Paper Edge Monthly
Pulp & Paper Edge Market Intelligence Report is an authoritative analysis of the pulp and paper industry in Australasia.

- Pricing – local production and imported paper and paperboard grades
- Production – Australian facilities, their access to resources and expenditure on capital projects
- Trade – volumes and pricing of imports and exports, the impact on the domestic market and international market trends
- New projects and facility upgrades – changes to capacity and processes, major capital works and market drivers behind the projects
- Company strategies – company positioning in the paper and paperboard markets, planned investments, changes in market share and company results
- Strategic issues – mergers and new entrants, changes in resource availability, market trends, environmental legislation and initiatives and industry bodies

- International developments – globalisation, freight costs, major new mills, the influence of international prices for pulp, paper and paperboard on the Australasian markets and investment by both international companies in Australasia, or local companies in overseas markets
- Government policies – at the federal and state levels impacting resource availability, pricing, trade, tariffs and markets, environmental standards and future market requirements.

In addition, each report contains a feature, such as a chief executive interview, or an in-depth analysis of issues of interest to the industry.

Pulp & Paper Edge analyses all aspects and issues influencing the markets for pulp, paper, packaging and wastepaper, from the raw resource through to final consumption.
